Expect 600 Enrollment Increase

Expect Largest To Be At New Memorial School

An increased enrollment is en cted in the public schools here when the opening bell sounds Monday morning. This increase, according to school officials, will probably be in excess of 600 over the number enrolled on opening last year. The largest increase is expected at the Memorial School in Oak Hill Park, where arrangements have been made for 112 new pupils, to bring the total enrollment there to about 332. Also a sixth grade class from the Oak Hill School district will be transferred to the Memorial School, it was announced. Last ver only the first floor of the new school was in use but since then the entire school has been furnished and will be used during the coming semester.

It is expected that a total of 127'3 pupils will enroll Monday in all Newton public schools compared with a total registra-tion of 12,101 on October 31, old B. Gores reported. Last year the enrollment figures were as follows: Elementary, 7075; junior high, 2583; senior high, 2132, and trade school, 311. Compared to this, the estimated enrolments this year are: Elementary, 7688; junior high, 2636; senior high, 2118, and trade school, 311.

The enrollment at the high school is expected to drop slighted to be as follows:

Angier, Waban, where the principal's office has been converted to a classroom, 25: Davis, West Newton, 25. Franklin, West Newton, where part of the auditorium will be used as a classroom, 37; Hyde, Newton Highlands, where the branch library will be used for classrooms, 40 Mason-Rice, Newton Centre, 61; Underwood, Newton, 59; Ward, Newton Centre, 14; Horace Mann, Newtonville, 17; Peirce, West Newton, 20; and

These estimates of enrollment are based on surveys taken by the School Department and in conjunction with figures obtain-

Good Support For Defense Bond Campaign

From the ocean sands of Provncetown to the heights of Mount Greylock, Massachusetts opens its part in the nation's first peacetime Defense Bond Campaign on Labor Day and will continue through the months of September and October with the effort to raise funds from the people to help defray the cost of the mighty defense program.

Secretary Snyder and national leaders of labor, banking, publicity, theatres, and national organizations, will take part in remonies at Grand Rapids, Mich., which will be carried by press, radio, and television to all parts of the country.

Massachusetts, always a leader, will inaugurate its part with a proclamation by Governor Dever and a message from Mayor Hynes of Boston. Announcements wil' be made in many of the churches, while service veterans posts, women's clubs, national organizations, and business associations, will carry the message to their memberships and to the public with the very appropriate slogan that, DE-FENSE IS YOUR JOB, TOO!

The work of organizing the State of Massachusetts has been carried out by State Director Francis E. Burke aided by a large staff of volunteers headed by State Chairman Corodon S. Fuller of Foxboro. Committees have been organized in all cities and towns and instructed in the detowns and instruction tails of this campaign. said Mr.

"This campaign," said Mr. Burke, "is destined to reach all segments of the public in a threefold endeavor: (1.) to enroll all workers on the payroll savings plan; (2.) to enroll self-employed and professional persons in the Bond-a-Month Plan, and (3.) to have every American buy a least one Defense Bond during the

Safety Council Issues Rules for Children Starting to School

Are you the parent of one of the many thousands of 6 year old boys and girls who are eagerly anticipating that day in September when they will "go to school" for the first time alone? If so, and if you have carefully trained your child to know how to go back and forth to school in safety, ways follow the rules you are you will have less dread of this first day than will the parent as using the crosswalks, waiting who has over protected his child for traffic to stop, watching for from the knowledge of highway the correct signal and for turnhazards during his pre-school ing cars before you step down days, according to the Massa- from the curb and then walkdays, according to the Massa-chusetts Safety Council. ing across. If he sees you violate any of these basic highway safe-"Health authorities assert that ty rules, your correct teaching will be virtually nullified.

the over-protected child is more likely to be hurt from accidents than is the one who has been given education and self-train ing in how to protect himself from hazardous conditions," explained Edgar F. Copell, president of the Council. "Too much protection by parents frequently makes children fearful of their own abilities to cope with new and unforeseen events. Keeping children from doing things not protection against accidents. Teaching them what to do and, more important, how to do it through self-experience is more nearly the answer.

"It would seem that many parents are neglecting this very essential duty in child-life training because, according to the Registry of Motor Vehicles, there was a 37 per cent increase in highway accidents to preschool children in Massachusetts in 1950.

"How well a child makes his first journey to school alone, accompanied or transported during his pre-school or kindergarten school days. may determine his safe conduct along the streets during the remainder of his life. The wise parent will plan ahead for this eventful first day. Throughout the period of training, he will try to develop the child's attitudes and habits and prepare him to deal successfully with all wrinkles and the fabric or hazards he may encounter. All wringer may be damaged. hazards he may encounter. All this takes time but it may dethe exciting possibilities of an entire collection. High school and college girls across the land termine the very length of the child's life," said Copell.

He recommended that parents follow certain tested procedures which have proven helpful as training techniques. These are: Training Techniques

1. If your child walks to school, carefully select the safest route for him to follow; explain the safety devices (curbs, crosswalks, traffic signals, traffic officers, safety patrols, etc.) pro-vided for his protection; point out guiding landmarks; emphasize and demonstrate unsafe procedures such as crossing from between parked cars, play ing in the highway, crossing be tween intersections, etc. 2. Take him over the school route several times. Then let him tell you what he has learned from you. Make him take you across the highways at the proper places and times and be sure he understands why does so.

3. If possible and in an offhighway area, give him a very simple visual demonstration of how much distance it takes to brake and stop a car at various speeds to prove the danger of his darting out onto the high way at places and times that are surprising to the motorist and hazardous to the child's

4. Set a good example of safe pedestrian conduct yourself. Al-

5. Teach him to think of the police officer as a friend—not some one to be feared - who works constantly to protect him from harm. If possible, have the child meet and talk with the school traffic officer before the first day comes.

"For added protection," Copell said, "be sure your child knows his full name and home address; also, write it on a slip of cloth and sew it into his clothing. This may eliminate delay in identification should the child be injured or "lost," espe cially if he has just moved into a new locality where he is unknown

"Then as the first weeks g by, be particularly observant of the child's highway habits before and after school hours to make sure that he realizes that his training is not just for school trips alone but for all times. And discipline him promptly for any failure on his part to observe your teachings imposed for his protection."

To prevent stubborn clothing wrinkles that take extra time to iror out, fold each article smoothly and evenly as you feed it through the washing machine wringer. Clothes that go through in a lump come out with needless

> Mothers have a responsibility to help their children keep this making sure that their children have a good lunch.

First of all, know the school's lunch program. If they serve lunches, help your children to make wise selections at school. The school child's lunch must be a real meal-one-third of his day's food needs-no less! Each food should be nourishing. At least one hot dish is desirable Though it does not make a lunch more nutritious necessarily, some hot food usually makes a meal more satisfying. Get the school menu a week in advance if you are supplementing it.

Whether your child brings a packed lunch from home, buys a plate lunch at school, or eats at home, a lunch guide to follow should include: ½ pint milk, 2 servings vegetables and fruits, a substantial main dish, including meat, cheese, eggs, fish, fowl dried beans, peas or peanut but

Joker in Pre-Primary Convention Bill

Governor Dever posed a rather neat problem for Republican leaders in the State Legislature with the special message in which he outlined the changes he would insist upon in the bill for the restoration of the pre-primary conventions before he would agree to sign the measure.

This is a law which the GOP chieftains are very anxious to place on the statute books because they believe it would improve their party's chances of putting up a strong State-wide slate next year. But if Mr. Dever's amendments are adopted they will come pretty close to preventing the Republican brass from using the convention for the very purpose for which they want it re-

The joker in the Governor's message was a suggested provision that a convention could endorse a slate of candidates only if one-third of its party's enrolled voters turned out for the pre-primary election at which the convention delegates were chosen.

Governor Dever would have no objection to a convention being called even if only one per cent of the voters turned out to cast ballots, but the Republican bosses aren't much interested in holding a convention un-less they can use it as a vehicle to fashion a potent slate in their attempt to stage a polilital comeback in Massachusetts.

Both Dever and the Republican politicians know that there is very little likelihood of drawing out one-third of the voters of either party for a spring election held for the purpose of designating convention delegates. That is proven by the very small turnouts for the pre-primary elections when delegates to the Republican and Democratic national conventions are being chosen.

Neither political party has had a turnout of one-third of its enrolled voters at least since 1932 when a terrific fight was waged between the supporters of Franklin D. Roosevelt and Alfred E. Smith for the control of the Massachusetts delegation to the Democratic national convention.

That was a battle in which the then Mayer James M. Curley spearheaded a Roosevelt drive against the Smith forces led by Governor Joseph B. Ely and the late Senator David I. Walsh. It was a delegate fight that occurs once in a political lifetime. It would take something of like proportions to draw out anything approaching one-third of the enrolled voters of a party. Under present conditions in Massachusetts the election of delegates to national conventions is usually meaningless. The blunt fact is that there is little about them to arouse the interest of the voters, and neither is there likely to be anything more meaningful about the election of the State delegates.

State Senator Philip G. Bowker of Brookline headed a recess commission which thoroughly studied this problem a couple of years ago and then suggested a series of changes in the law, under which the delegates would be required to run pledged to specific Presidential candidates. This would have afforded the voters an opportunity to indicate their sentiment concerning the various Presidential contenders and would have attached some real importance to the Massachusetts pre-primary.

It was pointed out by the Bowker commission that if William O. Politician and John Q. Bunkum are opposing each other for the right to serve as a delegate to a national or State convention, without either making known where he stands or what he would do if elected, there is not much reason for the voters to get very excited about their contest.

However, the politicians seem to resist almost any proposal for intelligent changes in the election laws, and the Bowker report received scant consideration in the Legislature, although the Brookline Senator had carefully studied the situation and the law-makers who refused to listen to him had not given more than passing attention to the matter. Bowker's idea might have been instrumental in working up enough interest so that a third of the enrolled voters of a party would go to the polls for a national pre-primary. But the blunt fact of the matter is that most of the professional politicians don't want to be committed when they go to a national convention, and they don't want the voters of their party to be able to dictate how their ballots will be cast. They want to be free to trade and barter and make their

Well, they can't have it both ways. They can't deny the voters any voice in nominating a Presidential or State candidate and expect the people to march in great numbers on the polls for a meaningless election.

A convention with the power to endorse a State-wide slate might well enable the Republican party to put up a more powerful ticket than they can under the present system. The voters probably would accept their suggestions, though that would not necessarily be the case.

But the whole idea behind the restoration of the convention is to enable a small but powerful group of party leaders to hand-pick a strong State-wide slate. To accomplish this they would first select delegates who would follow their bidding and carry out their orders.

Governor Dever, however, is endeavoring to scramble that strategy with his amendment, knowing, indeed, that his own party the G.O.P. would have to give away Cadillac sedans and television sets as door prizes to draw that many voters to the polls for a pre-primary.

Since the convention would be useless as a piece of political machinery, if it did not have the power to endorse candidates, G.O.P. leaders probably will attempt to pass their bill over the Governor's veto. There's no real possibility that they can pick up the necessary votes to do that in either the House or the Senate. But they probably will force the Governor to veto the measure outright rather than kill its effectiveness with amendments.

Door Always Open at West Newton Community Centre

By DOROTHY G. BAKER

The slogan of the West Newton Community Centre, a Red Feather agency, is "Our door is always open." The $5,000 grant from the Newton Community Chest for 1951 will be used to keep it that way—a source of wholesome social, educational, and recreational activities for boys, girls, young adults, and women of the neighborhood, a place to learn by doing and to develop ideas of service and fellowship.

Classes are available for various groups in knitting, cooking, rug hooking, various types of dancing, model boat building, woodcraft and story-telling.

QUOTE OF THE WEEK. "It's the little things that annoy us. We can sit on a mountain but not on a tack."

Any newspaper, worthy of the name, has two primary duties to perform. First, it must give, to the best of its ability, an adequate and impartial presentation of all types of news. It cannot, or should not, for one instant permit its news columns to be turned into a propaganda outlet for any person, cause or group. Its duty to its subscribers is clear. They seek news, presented fairly and impartially. Any deviation from that purpose s cointrary to all principles of newspaper work. Secondly, a newspaper has an obligation to its advertisers. This obligation is sacred and any newspaper which fails to recognize that which fails to recognize fact soon ceases to retain the respect and good-will of those who use its columns to advance the sale of their merchandise. Advertisers want to know, and are entitled to know, the true circulation of any issue in which they place their advertisement. They have the right to expect that any statement given to them is a statement of fact.

Down through the years The Graphic has abided by these principles. Its management all principles. Its management all during its 73 years of existence has recognized the existence of such a code of ethics and will continue to do so. A newspaper must first of all be a newspaper in every sense of the word. That, plus recognition of respect and the rights of its subscribers and its advertisers, has been the basis on which The Graphic has continued all through the years continue to operate in future

Essential Materials Cong. Herter Seeks Action In Capitol

Some light was shed this week on the present status of the petition of several hundred Newton residents requesting the Mayor and the Board of Aldermen to erect a municipal swimming pool, to be located in the vicinity of Albemarle playground. The Graphic learned that the whole question regarding the possibility of the city erecting an outdoor pool hinges upon the lifting of essential requirement restrictions on materials by the National Production Authority in Washington.

On July 24, Recreation Com-missioner C. Evan Johnson, at the direction of the Public Works Committee of the Board of Aldermen, communicated with Ruff B. Newman, N. P. Reproach Beyond Acceptance Sometime this year, probably about the middle of December, the 1,000,000th traffic death will occur in the United States, maybe Newton-unless there is mass determination to postpone that fateful date.

It is shocking to realize that since the turn of the century, since the first automobile chugged and hissed to the derision and excitement of a horse-drawn era, the lives of almost 1,000,000 men, women and children have been squandered in one of the most senseless and tragic wastes of modern times.

But even more shocking than the toll is the inescapable fact that few Americans feel any real personal concern. As their fellows perish about them, they look on with a detachment and complacency that is difficult to understand and even more difficult to alter.

There rests the keystone of the entire traffic safety structure-personal concern. The duty of every responsible citizen is to strive for traffic safety as a voter, as a volunteer worker in whatever capacity his interests and abilities direct, and as a driver and pedestrian. Even the relatively small percentage of accidents caused by mechanical failure of motor vehicles could be reduced if owners would make sure their cars are in safe condition.

Two years ago the well-loved Margaret Mitchell was struck down on a street in Atlanta by a driver who, while personally culpable, was only the product of his city's apathy. The blood of Margaret Mitchell was on the hands of everyone whose indifference set the stage for the tragedy. Shocked into action, Atlanta today is making impressive strides in accident prevention.

But what will it take to spur the nation into action? Will 1,000,000 deaths-the day of seven-figure reckoning-do it? If so, the dead will endure to some purpose and memorialize a new hope.

One million deaths, then, can be more than a morbid milestone on a road without ending. It is a place to examine the failures of the past and to plan for the future.

Prairie Warbler

You might think that the best place to look for Prairie Warblers is in the wide-open prairie country. But if you try to spot them there, you will be disappointed. Despite their name. Prairie Warblers don't go any further west than the eastern fringe of Nebraska.

Most of them, the National Wildlife Federation reports, stay in the east and south. In the summer, they are found in Florida and Mississippi, and northward to Ohio, Pennsylvania, New York, and New England.

In this region, they like to live in brushy country where low trees grow. There is also a good chance of finding them in a dry, barren pasture. They stay away from thick forests and wet, swampy places.

After choosing a summer home, a pair of Prairie Warblers sets about to build a nest in a small tree or a low bush. At a point obout four feet off the ground, the parent birds construct a dwelling of plant stems, bark, and leaves, with softer materials for a lining. They often use cobwebs to tie the larger pieces together.

The nest is finished by May, which is egglaying time for the Prairie Warblers. The female lays three, four, or five small, greenish-white eggs which are spotted with purple or brown. After she sits on them fourteen days, they hatch.

With hungry young mouths to fill, both parents get busy at the job of collecting The entire family lives on insects of all kinds, and each day they devour hundreds of bugs. Throughout the summer, they are a big help in destroying harmful pests. The young Prairie Warblers thrive on their share of the food, and they are ready to leave the nest in July. By the end of the month, the family may begin its journey to the south, though it may wait until nearer fall. No later than September, all Prairie Warblers are bound for their winter homes in Florida and in the West Indies. By this time, the young birds are beginning to look a little like their parents. The adult male is plain and dull on top, except for a few chestnut spots. Underneath, though, he is bright yellow, with some streaks of black on his sides. There are also two black marks near each eye. He is a fairly small bird—only four and a half to five inches long.

The female is about the same size, and almost the same in color. The main thing different about her is that the chestnut marks on her back are so faint they can hardly be seem to be saying "Zee-zee-zee-zee-zee-zee-zee-zee." Each "zee" is a note higher than the one before it, making the birds sound as though they were practicing a scale.

That provision could prove important if an all-out battle for control of the Bay State Cole, 187 Ash street, Waltham, a delegation to next year's G.O.P. national convention develops between supporters of Senator Robert A. Taft and General Dwight D. Eisenhower, as now seems likely.

There is no question but that Taft would readily grant consent for the use of his name

An unusual political situation could result if Eisenhower is still undecided and on the George E. Krah, Jr., 155 Blossom fence early next spring.

Ordinarily, delegate candidates pledged to specific Presidential hopeful, with their Dwight R. Robinson, 645 Centre choice for President listed below their own street, Newton, a girl. names on the ballot, have an edge on the would-be delegates running unpledged.

The indications are, however, that a majority of the top Republican figures in Mas-sachusetts will be either pro-Eisenhower or tertown, a boy. anti-Taft and will seek to have the Bay State convention votes unpledged if General Eisenhower decides not to run.

Representative James C. Bayley of the retti, 364 Auburne Back Bay, the most influential leader among Auburndale, a girl. the young Republicans in Massachusetts and certainly their most active chieftain, will throw his support behind Taft.

Bayley argues vigorously that the G.O.P. Lower Falls, a girl. should not turn its back on a man who has carried its banner and fought its battles down through the years as Taft has and give its backing to a military man about whose views on domestic matters it knows nothing. "It seems ridiculous for the Republican party to turn down a man who has come to 35 Southgate park, West Newton be known as Mr. Republican and to sponsor a girl. the candidacy of a man who has never committed himself on many vitally important matters," maintains Bayley who believes that the rank and file of G.O.P. voters in gher, 5 Fayette street, Newton, Massachusetts share his opinions.

A good many other Republicans believe that there will be little incentive for a man ton, a girl. to serve their party, if it, in turn, is to go outside its ranks in quest of its nominees for President.

Spotlight on the Newtons

Model railroading is more than a hobby line tank, and storage tanks. to Mr. Fred V. Fowler of 116 Dartmouth street, West Newton. He is compiling a collection of locomotives which will represent the history of railroading in North America.

Born in Mexico, the 47-year old hobbyist is master of a lilliputian world, which is controlled by a complex control-board.

His basement 12 ft. by 30 ft. layout is a railroader's dream. Twenty miles of wiring, and 400 ft. of track go into the make up of the lay-out. Two years time went into laying the tracks alone. If one man worked eight hours a day, every day, it would take him one year to lay the track.

The railroads are made to scale. They are exact replicas of full-sized railroads, starting with the roadbed, the ties, brass rails and even the interiors of the trains.

Mr. Fowler has a wife and four children the oldest of whom is eighteen. When his young son's trains needed repair, Mr. Fowler, who is somewhat of a perfectionist, rolled up Sacred Heart Church will reside his sleeves and put his engineering and mechanical knowledge to use. That was the beginning of his hobby that has turned into an amazing project.

Mr. Fowler has 18 locomotives. He uses six complete trains on his tracks.

At the control board, he lays out the train route, much the same as the signal man in real life. Then he turns the rheostat, which purchased the California allows flow of electricity to reach rails, which in turn brings electricity to the locomotive by direct current. Then he throws the directional switch, which allows for forward or backward movement of the train.

The trains are lighted; the headlight of the locomotive lends drama to the layout as we start on an imaginary trip.

This is the brick side of the layout. A village stands above the freight yard. Painted scenes along the wall add a realistic touch to the background.

In the village, tiny people buy tickets in the passenger station. English made autos, built to scale, drive down the street. Little people walk into the super-market, others stand before the restaurant. A fire depart-Miss Gertrude L. A Day Worth Waiting For!

Standard equipment, accessories and trim illustrated are subject to change without no

There are but few times in a man's life when he gets a thrill that matches the one he gets when he takes delivery of his first Cadillac.

We've watched it happen many, many times—and it never ceases to be a heart-warming experience.

You see—a man isn't simply buying a motor car when he gets his first Cadillac. He is marking a milestone in his life.

For years, he has been saying to himself that, some day, he would step up to a Cadillac. All this time, he has seen it as something he wanted to to do for his family... and as a sort of personal reward for the effort and planning that have gone into his own work. And when you watch him slide over behind the wheel

-well, it's a thrill just to be there. He's a proud and happy man as he turns the key in the ignition switch—and hears the deep-throated answer of the powerful engine.

If you are one who has been looking forward to a Cadillac-we think you would be well advised to come in and place your order now. There's a little delay these days before a Cadillae can be delivered-and obviously, the sooner you place your order, the sooner you'll get your car.

And when the great day comes, you'll know at once that it was well worth waiting for—because all the things you've heard about a Cadillac are doubly true. It isn't just a motor car. It's a wonderful contribution to a wonderful way of life!

Opening of West Roxbury A&P Recalls Food Firm's History

W. Kelly, vice-president in charge what these super markets mean

Volumes could be written about the thousands of products brought from the four corners of the world and sold daily in A&P stores. The company's buying operations run from the spice and tea gardens of the Orient to the fields and orchards of North America, and from the coffee plantations of South America to the salmon fisheries of Alaska. Besides its buying headquarters in New York, A&P maintains a field buying office in every major agricultural area in round out the company's countrywide system of food distribution. One important measure of the scope of its public service is in the fact that A&P is the largest shipper among non-heavy industries in the United States, doing business with every railroad that handles freight

To keep its vast operations in constant motion, A&P employs more than 100,000 men and women. But like every successful organization expanded from small beginnings, the company owes its present influence to the vision of its founder and the diligence of thousands of men and women who have worked to carry out his principles.

A&P operation. The year 1912 marked the sedevelopment. By this time the othy Powning, daughter of Mr. company had expanded its line to include such items as coffee, baking powder, spices, extracts, butter, canned foods, soaps and cleansers. Many of these were of A&P's own brand. George L. Hartford, eldest son of the founder, had determined as early as 1890 that A&P stores should always feature only high-quality, reasonably priced products, even if the company had to manufacture its own.

The stores still operated along traditional lines extending taking telephone orders. But it was the belief of John A. Hartford, the founder's younger son Waltham, son of Mr. and Mrs. who had then begun active par- Joseph Cormier of 38 Webster who had then begun active participation in the business, that by doing away with credit, premiums and deliveries, the commiums and deliveries, the commiums and deliveries to reduce the committee of the committe pany would be able to reduce costs even more and enable consumers to benefit by additional savings through buying for cash.

Created "Economy" Store The "economy" store was creat ed on this principle, and proved an instant success. An economyminded nation readily took to the new type of food shop, and it was not long before many competitors followed suit.

With the passing of the elder Hartford in 1917, his two sons affectionately called" Mr. George" and "Mr. John" by fellow-workers-took complete command of the business. Their heritage of foresight and energy made possible more than a stalwart company—even more than a system of food distribution. It provided a "pattern" of effic-O'Brien, and Mr. Peter L. have always been flexible enough to change with changing times During and after World War I, example, prices skyrocketed and the cost of living spiraled to new highs. Inflated prices of most commodities called the attention of millions of Americans to savings made possible by A&P methods of doing business. During this period the Company and Mrs. Barnet Miller as speopened thousands of new stores literally by popular demand. It was decided, too, that the time come to expand the store facilities to include meat departments and fresh fruit and vegetable sections. Thus, the "combistore had come into its own, and with it the creation of northern markets for southern produce in winter months and a consequent broadening of opportunity for agriculture

kets. Today's shoppers know costs.

The opening festival at the new West Roxbury A&P draws attention to the nation's pioneer food firm which has stores in 37 states. Operations throughout New England are under the direction of Lawrence M. Cazayoux, divisional president, with Joseph the company's activities in the daily life of the average throughout the Greater Boston family. With as many as ten separate departments, featuring nearly 3,000 items and in some instances requiring over a hundred employees, the A&P super market in countless communities meets all conceivable food needs under one roof and offers a wider variety of fine foods at iower prices than has ever before been possible.

More than twenty years ago the far-flung character of A&P indicated the advisability of decentralization in the interest of greater efficiency and economy. milk plants, processing plants and warehouses, in addition to laundries and print shops with the problems peculiar to each area of operation could be met quickly and with the problems peculiar to each area of operation could be met quickly and with the problems peculiar to each area of operation could be met quickly and with the problems peculiar to each area of operation could be met quickly and with the problems peculiar to each area of operation could be met quickly and with the problems peculiar to each area of operation could be met quickly and with the problems peculiar to each area of operation could be met quickly and with the problems peculiar to each area of operation could be met quickly and with the problems peculiar to each area of operation could be met quickly and with the problems peculiar to each area of operation could be met quickly and with the problems peculiar to each area of operation could be met quickly and with the problems peculiar to each area of operation could be met quickly and with the problems peculiar to each area of operation could be met quickly and with the problems peculiar to each area of operation could be met quickly and with the problems peculiar to each area of operation could be met quickly and with the problems peculiar to each area of operation could be met quickly and with the problems peculiar to each area. local conditions.

This decision accounts for the present seven geographical divi-sions of the Company. Each division has its own president whose responsibilty it is to make the decision affecting operations in his area. For purpose of efficiency each division consists of warehouse units with a divisional vice-president or general superintendent in charge. The units in turn are composed of supervis ors' territories, each of which includes about ten stores.

Opening of West Roxbury A&P Recalls Food Firm's History

attention to the nation's pioneer food firm which has stores in 37 states. Operations throughout New England are under the direction of Lawrence M. Cazayoux, divisional president, with Joseph W. Kelly, vice-president in charge what these super markets mean of the company's activities in the daily life of the average

Volumes could be written about the thousands of products brought from the four corners of the world and sold daily in A&P stores. The company's buying operations run from the spice and tea gardens of the Orient to the fields and orchards of North America, and from the coffee plantations of South America to the salmon fisheries of Alaska. Besides its buying headquarters in New York, A&P maintains a field buying office in every major agricultural area in

Then there are huge bakeries. milk plants, processing plants and warehouses, in addition to laundries and print shops, which round out the company's countrywide system of food distribution. One important measure of the scope of its public service is in the fact that A&P is the largest shipper among non-heavy industries in the United States, doing business with every railroad that handles freight To keep its vast operations in constant motion, A&P employs more than 100,000 men and women. But like every successful organization expanded from small beginnings, the company owes its present influence to the vision of its founder and the diligence of thousands of men and women who have worked to carry development. By this time the othy Powning, daughter of Mr. company had expanded its line to include such items as coffee, baking powder, spices, extracts, sugar, butter, canned foods, cereals, soaps and cleansers. Many of these were of A&P's own brand. George L. Hartford, eldest son of the founder, had determined as early as 1890 that A&P stores should always feature only high-quality, reasonably priced products, even if the company had to manufacture its own.

The stores still operated along traditional lines extending credit, offering premiums and taking telephone orders. But it ticipation in the business, that street were married Saturday by doing away with credit, pre- afternoon. Y. costs even more and enable consumers to benefit by additional savings through buying for cash.
Created "Economy" Store

The "economy" store was created on this principle, and proved an instant success. An economyminded nation readily took to the new type of food shop, and it was not long before many competitors followed suit.

With the passing of the elder Hartford in 1917, his two sons affectionately called" Mr. George" and "Mr. John" by felorkers-took complete command of the business. Their heritage of foresight and energy made possible more than a stall wart company-even more than system of food distribution. have always been flexible enough to change with changing times. During and after World War I, for example, prices skyrocketed and the cost of living spiraled to new highs. Inflated prices of ost commodities called the attention of millions of Americans to savings made possible by A&P Mrs. Milender in the Newton methods of doing business. Dur. drive will be Mrs. Harold Singer ing this period the Company opened thousands of new stores -literally by popular demand. It was decided, too, that the time had come to expand the store facilities to include meat departments and fresh fruit and vege able sections. Thus, the "combination" store had come into its own, and with it the creation of northern markets for southern produce in winter months and a onsequent broadening of opportunity for agriculture.

throughout the Greater Boston family. With as many as ten separate departments, featuring nearly 3,000 items and in some instances requiring over a hun-dred employees, the A&P super market in countless communities meets all conceivable food needs under one roof and offers a wider variety of fine foods at iower prices than has ever before been possible.

More than twenty years ago the far-flung character of A&P indicated the advisability of decentralization in the interest of greater efficiency and economy. This required delegating responsibility so that the problems peculiar to each area of operation could be met quickly and wisely and with intimate knowledge of local conditions.

This decision accounts for the present seven geographical divisions of the Company. Each division has its own president whose responsibilty it is to make the decision affecting operations in his area. For purpose of efficiency each division consists of warehouse units with a divisional vice-president or general superintendent in charge. The units in turn are composed of supervis ors' territories, each of which includes about ten stores.

This brief account of the company is perhaps a capsule history of streamlined distribution itself. nickel isn't supposed to be as good as a dollar, but it goes to church more often."

I met my good pal Bill Biggins yesterday. In case you don't know who Bill is, a little of his background might help you to know him better. I have known Bill for about 30 years. He is one of those cynical cusses. pessione of those cynical cusses. one of those cynical cusses, pessimistic to a degree, but for all that he packs a lot of common sense in his thinking. And because he is such a cynic many folks don't like him, but to me, despite our many arguments, he is a solid, well-read individual and while he steps on many peoples toes, what he says makes sense. "I see," said Bill by way of opening up a conversation, "where they're going to hold city elec-tions soon." Nothing startling in that remark, but knowing Bill I knew he had something he wanted to get off his chest and I wasn't long wondering what. "Many of these candidates for office," candidates for office,' continued Bill, "make me sick. To hear their line of chatter you would think all of us common folks are dumb when as a matter of fact it's a iot of the pols who are dumb, so dumb in fact that if they had to go to work many of them couldn't get a $20 a week job, inflation included. But what really makes my ulcers campaign. Now I don't say that all office holders are perfect. Far from it. But at least many of them are doing a passable job. Yet along comes a feller seeking office, who for the lack of anyconcrete, just conducts a campaign of destruction and villification. I'm a little wary of those birds. It just proves their lack of intelligence. To hear them talk you would think they were perfection personified. Well, show me a perfect man and more particularly a perfect candidate, and I'll show you the feller I wouldn't vote for. We're all human and these buzzards who would have you believe that his opponent is a scoundrel, just hasn't any grey matter in his skull to talk that way. Sometimes I don't know just what these candidates think we common folks are anyway. Frankly I don't give a hoot. I'm voting for the man I believe best qualified for the office and when I hear one of these so-called wonders carrying on a campaign of destruction rather than construction, I've got my own opinions and no one is going to change them, not at least that type of critter. What's the matter? In a hurry? Well I suppose you have got business to attend to, but remember Old Timer, when I corner you again next week I'm

Record Class Enters Hospital School of Nursing

Students

The largest single class in the history of the School of Nursing at Newton-Wellesley Hospital will meet for the first time Monday at the hospital. Out of a group of 59 probationers, eight come from Newton, three from New Hampshire, two from Maine and the remainder from communities in this state.

Stressing the fact that nursing offers many advantages as a career for young women, Miss Myrtice L. Fuller, Director of the School of Nursing, states, "This year there are 20,000 more girls enrolled in nursing schools than there were 20 years ago. We still do not keep pace with the entire demand for trained nurses, but at least we are headed in the right direction.

Nursing skills have been much more highly perfected in recent years according to Miss Fuller and the nursing profession has kick up are those candidates who been forced to keep pace with base their plea on a destructive the increasing complexity in day are far more fully trained and better equipped to meet the many calls on their skills.

of Aldermen Monday night, ac cepted provisions of Chapter 136, Sections 21, 22, 23, 24, and 25, of the General Laws which permits charging of admission to sport games held on Sundays here. Admission may now be charged for games held in the city on Sundays subject to the provisions of the State law.

Opposed to the acceptance of Chapter 136 were Aldermen Bigelow, Wood, Buse, Terkelson and Rich, who were inclined to the belief that the regulation of admission charges to games on Sunday here might more properly be regulated by the adoption of a city ordinance. In opposing the action taken by the majority of the board, the dissenting members contended they were not necessarily opposed to the charging of admission fees for Sunday games but believed a city ordinance would better regulate the control of such games.

The pertinent facts of Chapter 136, which the Aldermen have adopted, state that: "Section 21. In any city which accepts sections twenty-one to twenty-five, inclusive, . . . it shall be lawful on the Lord's day to take part in or witness any athletic outdoor sport or game, as hereinafter provided, between the hours of one thirty and six Sullivan emphasized that it was not a question of supply of materials but rather that plans be made for the building of such facilities on the north side of the city. He further made plain that the Horace Mann Improvement Association, a nonpolitical organization, interested only in civic betterment, had requested a public hearing before the Board of Aldermen to have plans and specifications drawn up for such a project.

Critical of Alderman Rich's letter, Mr. Sullivan said:

Editors Are Human

One of the nice things about working in a weekly newspaper office is the close personal touch maintained with readers and subscribers. The daily papers do an excellent job of coverage, local, national and international, but of necessity most of this work must be done in an entirely impersonal atmo-

A weekly paper thus fulfills a valuable function as it prints at length the doings of the community, both official and social. It is the people's paper. They have ready access to its columns and can sit down with the editor as often as they please.

From the editor's viewpoint, the best part of the day comes when someone calls to say "thank you" for a story on this or that club or movement. Tradition has it that newspaper workers become hardboiled, in the movie-myth fashion. "Taint so.

Not that there aren't brickbats too as well as bouquets but it's human nature to count only the sunny hours, like the sundial. Monarch Butterfly

If Monarch Butterflies could be marked with identification bands, just as birds are, we might learn some amazing stories about their journeys. For Monarchs are among the strongest fliers and most famous travelers in the butterfly world.

In the winter, they may be seen only in the warmest parts of the south. But in the summer great swarms of them appear in the most parts of the United States.

There are many mysteries about how they carry on these migrations, says the National Wildlife Federation, but it is no secret that they go where they can find milkweed. They feed on the plant and lay their eggs on its stems and leaves.

The tiny green eggs hatch about four days after they are laid. From each egg comes a caterpillar which grows to be about two inches long. It has a yellow and black head and a white body with black and yellow bands. It, too, feeds on milkweed.

In about three weeks, the caterpillar goes through all the steps of becoming an adult butterfly. The new member of the Monarch family has brilliant reddish-brown wings with black veins and borders.

Along the outer borders are rows of white spots. When its wings are stretched out, the Monarch measures $3\frac{1}{2}$ to 4 inches across. Since there is less than a month between the laying of an egg and the appearance of the adult butterfly, the Monarch population grows rapidly each summer. Although some of them may be eaten by birds, the losses are not great because most birds do not like Monarch caterpillars and butterflies. This, too, enables them to thrive and multiply.

While they become numerous, they no not cause any trouble. The only growing thing which they relish is milkweed—a plant which has no value to man.

Monarchs are natives of North America, and the National Wildlife Federation reports that they have spread to parts of Europe, Asia, Australia and New Zealand. How they got abroad is another of the mysteries about

Sidelights on Boston's Mayoralty Contest

Our neighboring community of Boston is witnessing what may prove an historical political event-the last stand of James Michael Curley.

Not that we think that the 76-year-old Mr. Curley will be eliminated in the preliminary primary next Tuesday. Quite the contrary. We suspect that Mr. Curley may come in first -if enough Bostonians stay home and don't bother to go to the polls-as may well prove to be the case.

Even if that comes to pass, however, there is a very strong possibility that Mr. Curley will be politically liquidated next November when the conservative and Republican voters presumably will work up enough enthusiasm to turn out and vote.

There are a number of remarkable sidelights to the campaign now roaring to a climax in Boston.

One, of course, is that Mr. Curley is running at all. The second is that he is solemnly promising the voters of his city that he will positively reduce their tax rate if they send him back to City Hall, though this has never been one of the achievements for which Mr. Curley is noted.

What struck us as unusual, however, as we listened to the pealing thunder of campaign oratory in our capital city was the fire-eating attacks which former Police Commissioner Timilty is now levelling at Mr. Curley.

While we listened attentively, Mr. Timilty said in substance that Curley stands for corruption. He said that Curley is a political ruption. He said that Curley is a political hack, that his administrations have all but wrecked Boston, that the records of his waste bridge, or stream, they sit on camp stools and capture the scene his regimes invariably have been followed by

Not a single official gesture upon the Albemarle project had been made by the 'powers that be' at city hall.

"Just a few pertinent ques-tions I would like to ask Alder-man Rich. Did he present a positive plea to Congressman Herter to intercede for the building of such facilities? Did he mention the fact that such civic minded organizations as the Newton YMCA, the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, the largest industrial union in Newton, employees of the Raytheon plants and even the congressman's own son, Rep. Christian A. Herter Jr., had endorsed the project? Did he ques-tion the city authorities from Mayor to the Recreation Commission regarding their opinions? Is he serving as a 'bottle groups of shoppers were viewed by the video audiences.

The interest of shoppers was attracted to three brand new A&P departments. One for cosmetics. another for magazines and periodicals, and a third for all types of kitchenware. Most patrons observed that the installation of these A&P featrues would prove a real shopping convenience.

The complete self-service meat, fish and poultry department also prompted considerable praise. Rows of gleaming, refrigerated phane wrapped cuts of fresh merchandise attracted hundreds of weeekend shoppers.

Despite the huge crowds throughout the weekend, the large, free parking area surrounding the red-brick structure adequately accommodated the heavy

Company officials announced their appreciation for the fine welcome the store received from esidents of West Roxbury and shoppers from adjacent communties. The opening was regarded as one of the most successful the 91-year history of the feod chain which pioneered the present system of low-cost food distribution.

City Councilor and State Representative Walter D. Bryan presided at ribbon-cutting ceremonies before a battery of photographers and hundreds of opening-day shoppers. Lawrence M. Cazayoux, president of A&P in New England; Joseph W. Kelly, company vice-president of the National Shawmut Bank, and Randolph Gooding, store manager, were members of the official party.

Motion pictures of the opening were later telecast over both Boston channels as part of the Shawmut news program. A&P and civic officials as well as large groups of shoppers were viewed by the video audiences.

Johnny, Jr., the Philip Morris cigarette caller, paid a visit to the super market and gave several auditions of his famous voice. Besides drawing the names of a few prize winners, he autographed cartons of cigarettes for scores of housewives.

NEWTON SAYS GOOD BYE TO BOBBY. Paying official

tribute to Bobby Doerr, retiring Red Sox second baseman and one of the all time great baseball players, Mayor Theodore R. Lockwood Monday presented him with a copy of

The History of Newton" as a farewell gesture. Doerr, who has been a resident of Furbush avenue, West Newton, for the past 10 years, will leave soon for his home in Oregon. During their residence in Newton, Doerr, Mrs. Doerr and their son Donny, 9, endeared themselves to a legion of friends and neighbors by their warm, sincere charm and

At the opening meeting, which was held in the Newton Centre Playground House, many prominent men and women expressed their unqualified belief that Newton's Hallowe'en parties were of incalculable, long-range benefit to the City at large, inasmuch as they had, through the years, achieved their major objective-zenship.

Among those who spoke enthusiastically about this unique, all-village enterprise were Mayor Theodore R. Lockwood, Harold B. Gores, Superintendent of Schools, C. Evan Johnson, Commissioner of Recreation, Howard Whitmore, Jr., this year serving his third term as General Chairman of the Hallowe'en Committee, and Mrs. Ragna Hovgaard, Supervisor of Recreation, who has been the spark plug of Newton's Hallowens since their inception.

Mayor Lockwood said, in part:

A reception at the Corinthian Club in Syracuse, New York, followed the wedding Saturday afternoon of Miss Marilyn Mayers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Gordon Mayers of Fayetteville, and Mr. Donald B. Eden, son of Mr. and Mrs. P. Edward Eden of Newton Centre. The ceremony was performed in the DeWitt

Community Church by the Rev. Alexander C. Carmichel. The bride chose an imported chantilly lace gown made with a fitted bodice, and illusion neck-line. The lace skirt was cut Memorial road, Newton, and Mary T. Whalen, 32 Emerson street, Newton.

Inc. The lace skirt was cut away in a full cathedral train to reveal bouffant underskirts of nylon tulle over slipper satin. An imported French illusion veil was attached to a cloche of matching chantilly lace edged in seed pearls. She carried fleur d'amour and swansonia.

The honor attendant, Miss Eleanor Kelsey of Fayetteville, wore a gown of gold satin and carried a cascade of yellow pompon dahlias and croton foliage. The bridesmaids, Mrs. Douglas V. Cross, Miss Marilyn Bunnell and Miss Elizabeth Gruppe, all of Syracuse, wore similar gowns of green satin.

Robert A. Eden of Hartford, Connecticut, was his brother's best man and the ushers were Carter H. Hoyt, Jr., of West Newton, Rogers W. Cabot of New-tonville and Charles F. Bigelow of Newport, Vermont.

Mrs. Mayers, mother of the bride, wore a gown of navy velvet with matching hat and white orchids. Mrs. Eden, the bridegroom's mother, was gowned in blue aqua lace with a rust-brown hat and brown cymbidium orchids.

The bride was graduated from the Fayetteville School. Following service in the Signal Corps, the bridegroom graduated from Syracuse University, where he was a member of I'ni Kappa Tau fraternity. After a wedding trip to Canada, they will live in Fayetteville.

Dr. George Michaelides To Speak At Fall Luncheon

President of Schauffler College, Cleveland, Ohio, distinguished Christian educator, will speak at the opening Fall luncheon of the Women's Association of Elliot Church, Newton, next Tuesday.

This summer, Dr. Michaelides took part in the 1900th Anniversary of the landing of St. Paul in Greece and the coming of the Christian faith to the Western world, flying to Greece at the joint invitation of the Archbishop of Athens and the University of Athens.

Dr. Michaelides has been visiting lecturer at many institutions of learning including Smith College, the Fenn College, the Graduate School of Theology, Oberlin College, and Cleveland College of Western Reserve University.

Schauffler College, a Congregational Christian institution, specializing in religious and social work, has an international and interdenominational student body of young women from all parts of the world.

Like other Americans of Near Eastern background Dr. Michaelides' past is tinged with tragedy. Born of Greek parents in a small town in the ancient Ionian colonies, not far from Smyrna, Turkey,
Mr. Michaelides attended the

An inspiring Temple Emanuel Ground Breaking Ceremony, in-augurating the building of a 15 school room religious school and Temple Auditorium took place last Sunday afternoon. Although a morning of rain had threatened to drive the festivities indoors, shortly before the scheduled start, the heaven cleared and a bright sun broke through the sky allowing the ceremony to take place outdoors as arranged, at Ashford road and Ward street in Newton Centre.

Dignitaries attending were, Rabbi Joseph Shubow, President of the Rabbinical Association of Greater Boston; Rabbi Irving Mandell, Rabbi of Temple Sholom of Newton; Honorable Theodore Lockwood, Mayor of the City of Newton; Rev. Frederick Groet sema, President, Newton Ministers Association.

Upon completion of the address of the day by Dr. Albert I. Gor-don, Rabbi of Temple Emanuel, the honor of breaking first ground was accorded Bennett Rockman, Chairman of the Building Committee. The present President, Peter Groper, Ira I. Nelson, 3rd President, George E. Gordon, 2nd President, and Ralph Cohn, 1st President of Temple Emanuel, each in turn were accorded ground breaking honors. In his address, Dr. Gordon lauded the efforts of Meyer Armet, who has been chairman for several years of the Temple Emanuel School Committee

The National Anthem and several musical scores, "Mah Tovu" and "Hallelujah" were rendered by the Temple Emanuel Sister-hood Choral Group led by Canton Gabriel Hochberg. An address, "What this Building Means to Us" was delivered in Hebrew by Fred Baker, pupil of Temple Emanuel Hebrew School. 300 attended the outdoor cere mony and later participated in the social hour held in the Temple

An Encouraging Sign

It is encouraging to note that work is proceeding with dispatch now on the preparation of off-street parking areas throughout

Certainly business interests can best be served by the city authorities in making haste with these areas. This has become increasingly evident with the establishment in neighboring communities of large-scale mercantile developments.

The trend of shopping habits has changed with the years. Today everyone who has an automobile uses it for their shopping pur-Consequently, they seek those locations which offer them the best parking facili-

In providing off-street parking areas, Newton authorities, cognizant of the time, are doing their utmost to meet this out-of-town shopping threat and making it more desirable and more convenient to shop here.

Newton residents would do well to partronize those stores in this community which cater to their needs. With greater parking facilities available, this should be the result.

Both psychiatry and religion have been telling us that people need warmth of rela-tionships. Leaders of thought thus are saying that love is the only cure for the hatred. suspicion and prejudice that is poisoning the

As with every uplift movement, the start must be made at home. This new stress of the need of love and warmth must first be seen and practiced between individual members of the family and then between family and family in the community. First comes self-improvement and then national and international improvement. Otherwise we are dealing only in words and slogans.

One does not have to be too old to remember when the schools largely inculcated the idea of ambition, that every boy must strive feverishly to make his mark in the world, must strive to outpace the next one. This competitive psychology, projected on a large scale, has had not a little to do with the ills of the world today, economic, mental and

We cannot go it alone. We need one another, otherwise we are isolated in a cold prison of a world. Anything that we can do to break down unthinking prejudice, to understand one another, to be kind in judgment will help to abate the spiritual smog that hovers ominously overhead.

The Wild Lupine

When an amateur gardener first sees the bright blossoms of Wild Lupine, he may be tempted to transplant some of the flowers to *of their man. his yard at home. They seem hardy enough, Without eve for they grow well in soil that is dry and sandy.

But when he tries to dig up and move a few plants, he is in for two surprises. The first, says the National Wildlife Federation, is the discovery that the roots of the Wild Lupine go deep. It is hard to get them out of the soil without damaging them.

The second surprise comes later-after the plants are in the gardener's flower beds. He soon notices that they are not thriving. Though they are standing in better soil and getting more moisture than they did when growing wild, they become weak and sickly. They may win the struggle to live, but they do not flourish.

If left in his native haunts, however, Wild Lupine is one of our strongest and hardiest flowers. It grows to a height of about two feet. At the tops of the straight stalks are clusters of small, sweet-smelling flowers. Each blossom is about three fourths of an inch long. When you examine it, the shape may remind you of a pair of small wings underneath a hood. The flowers may be blue, pink, white, or purple, and they bloom from May through June.

Wild Lupine also bears long, slender seed pods. Each one is about an inch and a half in length. When ripe, it breaks open into coils and frees from four to six seeds. But the most interesting parts of Wild Lupine are the leaves which grow along its stalks. Each leaf has from five to fifteen leaflets, all attached to one point, like the spokes of a wheel.

With carefully taken photographs, it has been proved that the leaflets move almost constantly during the day. Only at night and on dark days do they rest. When taking it easy, they either stand straight up or they turn downward and cover their stem like the ribs of a folded umbrella.

The place to find the flower with these unusual leaves is in the eastern half of the United States. Wild Lupine grows from Maine to Florida and west to Minnesota, Missouri, and Louisiana. It likes both sandy soil and plenty of sunlight, so it stays away from Legislature Walking on Treadmill . . . MacArthur Could Hurt Eisenhower . . .

A few weeks ago, one of the Republican in a city where each of us has members of the House of Representatives the opportunity of really being facetiously suggested that the body make able to know just who the various candidates are, what their

His humor drew lusty guffaws of laughter at the time, and his colleagues all thought and talk with the various candiit was very funny.

What the gentleman undoubtedly had in mind was that this body has spent more so, remember, if you are invited venting further damage, especial time doing less than just about any Legisla- to attend a home rally for any ture in memory. It has given a pretty good candidate, be smart - go and imitation of a man walking on a treadmill meet with your neighbors and that is moving against him. He just stays in the same place all the time.

If the Legislature ever really got down to business and applied itself to the major problems confronting it, its members could conclude their activities in a matter of days and go home, saving the people about $15,000 which is spent each week they are in session.

There is no likelihood of that happening, however. The Republican members of the State Senate apparently won't agree to any of the taxes the Democratic members of the house propose, and the Democratic House seems to be making little effort to suggest any tax program that would be acceptable to the G.O.P.-controlled upper chamber.

In a situation of this kind the sensible thing to do would be to have the Democratic of the Newton Fire Department and Republican leaders of the two branches on three occasions reflect only sit down at a conference, talk things out and agree upon a program that could be enacted the accompanying letters have into laws. But they just don't seem to do been acknowledged by Chief John things that way on Beacon Hill.

Week after week, one member of the House zens who are served by this public of Representatives walked out of that body's service department in emergenchamber at 4:50 each afternoon.

No matter what issue was being debated or what measure was to be voted upon, when the clock showed the time to be 10 minutes before 5, he briskly hustled out of the State House.

His colleagues couldn't quite understand it. He had no other business or profession and, so far as they were aware, nothing to engage his attention.

They finally discovered the answer to his daily departure. The reason he hustled out from the law-making deliberations was that he had to give his dog an airing at 5 each

On a few occasions, other members of his functions, etc., with the Newton Community Council LA 7-5121 for party contacted him while he was out walking his canine and asked him please to return and vote on some major measure.

One picture which Republican leaders visualize with rather mingled emotions is that of General Douglas MacArthur addressing next year's G.O.P. national convention as one of its key orators.

Some of them anticipate the scene with a good deal of political relish, others with a sense of wariness. Both groups consider that MacArthur inevitably will be invited to address the convention, and both concede that 12:00 4:00 Newton Lower Falls—Family-Mardi-Gras, Hamilton once he takes the rostrum he will be on his own and will say exactly what he thinks and what he wishes to say.

Supporters of General Eisenhower are not overlooking the possibility that MacArthur could explode a political time bomb which might do considerable damage to the cause

Without even referring directly to Eisenhower, for example, he could say that he himself had turned down all suggestions that his name be placed before the convention because he did not believe that in these times any military man should sit in the President's chair. Such a statement might have a resounding impact around the nation.

It is believed that MacArthur will be on the bandwagon of Senator Robert A. Taft when the political chips are down and the Republican party is selecting its candidate for President next year.

The reason for that opinion is that Mac-Arthur's views on the foreign policy we should follow, coincide rather closely with those of Taft and are in rather sharp conflict with those of Eisenhower.

The Eisenhower backers suspect that if MacArthur is the keynote speaker of the convention he isn't likely to let the occasion pass without doing something to help Taft and set back Eisenhower, but right now they can't see any way such a situation could 10:00. 3:30 be avoided. MacArthur certainly won't decline a speaking role at the convention. and the G.O.P. could hardly avoid offering him

How does the League work? Let's cite an actual case. A young man of 23 smoked 2 packs (40 cigarettes) a day. He phoned Mr. Ferry. As he lived nearby, Mr. Ferry and his wife went directly in answer to the anxious plea for advice.

The young man, whom we shall call John, was described by Mr. Ferry as a "typical smoker." He had sallow skin, weary eyes, was extremely nervous and jittery.

Waban Square, Newton

Dear Antiquarian:

No longer need you travel hundreds of miles to the Cape or New Hamp-shire to spend your husband's hard-earned dollars for those English bone-china caps and saucers, Delft clocks, Meissen plates, Ironstone tureens, Sevres vases, etc., etc.

Now, you have only to walk around the corner to my new little shop in Waban Square where I plan to save you miles of travel as well as many dollars in your antique extravagances.

Of course, I can't provide the aromas of the barn-shop dung or the lispy chirpings of the long-haired boys (I'm baid) to which you might have become accustomed out there in the open spaces but then, I don't have to add that onto the price of my goods, either.

As a matter of fact, my principal reason for opening my shop in Waban after having spent a quarter of a century paying rent for a four-story building on Boylston street, Boston, with ten hunsry employees and all of the other incidental expenses, was to effect the lowest possible overhead where I could pass the savings on to you, my customers.

Why not step in and visit, if not to buy, and let us exchange informa-tion at least. If you know about one type of chine, and I about another, and we exchange our knowledge, then we part richer in knowledge than when part richer in knowledge, then we we met—and it hasn't cost either of us anything.

Sincerely, Louis A. Arnold

Important Talk Given By Dr. and Mrs. Emil Hartl

An informal talk by Dr. and | The W.S.C.S. business meeting Memorial marked the opening meeting of the Women's Society for Christian Service of the Cen-tenary Methodist Church of Auburndale on Sept. 19/

Dr. Hartl has been the Director of the Havden Goodwill Inn at Morgan Memorial since its founding in 1938. This home for boys and young men broken and delinguent homes was started in 1938 by a grant of $100,000 from the Charles Hayden Fund. An important purpose of the institution is to guide boys into worthwhile activities through school and industry. The Hartl's report success in many cases in channelling the boys interests into constructive fields.

last Saturday to barely eke out a 13 to 13 tie with underdog Rindge Tech before about 3000 at Dickinson Stadium. After failing to complete a pass in sever previous attempts, Quarterback Fred Dauten, threw a 17-yard touchdown strike to end Bob Morrison and then proceeded to boot the extra point with less than two minutes to play. Newton trailed, 13 to 0 at the half and was faced by a fourth down and 25-to-go situation when Dauten, passing from kick formation, uncorked his lengthy flip to Morrison. The scoring play covered 61 yards. Rindge converted Newton mis-cues into a pair of first half scores. The game was only two minutes old when the Cantabs' Bob Murphy picked off an errant Dauten pass on the Newton 35 and scampered to pay dirt. Larry Plenty booted the conversion. Early in the second period, Guard Joe Feralito of Rindge recovered a fumble on the Orange 10. Two plays later, Plenty slid through right tackle for a seven-yard gain and fumbled right into the arms of teamate Bob Loprete when hit on the Newton two. Loprete tallied easily, but this time Plenty missed on the try for the point-after.

Rindge again threatened midway through the third period un-til Newton's Dan Coffey intercepted a pass at the Newton 13 and raced 63 yards to the Rindge 24 where he was overhauled by Tom Magnarelli. A Newton score was nullified by a back-in-motion penalty and Rindge took over on its two. Then a fourth-down gamble backfired, giving Newton its first scoring chance at the Rindge 12. Four plays later Dauten skirt-ed right end on a "keep" play

WHY BRISTOL

(1) We don't tie springs just 4 or 6 ways—we tie them fully 8 ways and with special twine.
(2) We don't just glue loose frames—we take out old dowels, replace them with larger and new ones. We add brand new corner blocks.
(3) We don't tack seams at just the obvious spots—we hand sew seams through vious spots-we hand sew seams through.

out the piece.

(5) The seams on the sides and backs aren't blind-tacked—all the seams are hand-sewn.

(6) We don't use ordinary fibre or excelsion—we use the new, expensive moss filing.

celssor—we use filling.

(7) We don't just repair your cushions—we make brand new cushions, springs and all.

(8) We don't put the fabric on carelessly—we make sure the pattern matches per-feetly.

(9) We don't just cut from a pattern-we fit your cover as carefully as a tailor.

Flexible Steel

Our own original method. The most vital part of your living room suite is the spring construction. Our new webbing and understructure prevents spring sagging.
